The Babbling Bruch

A lady went to the doctor with an ailment, and asked him "Am I going to die?" The doctor replied, "No, you are not going to die", WRONG!

Hello! We are all going to die. The point of our lives as Christians is not to lose our lives, but to save them. We have to adjust our martyr complexes to the local point of salvation, especially if our early religious training was long on suffering and short on hope. Preserving our lives for eternity does involve a temporal surrender. It does mean meeting the hour of death head-on, by investing in it through the choices of this hour and every hour. Time is short, but eternity is not. If we did not learn in our early training that the purpose of our days is to orient ourselves for the time without end, now is the time to incorporate that lesson. To what must I die to in order to bear fruit? Christ learned obedience through suffering. In what ways am I called to do the same?

Christians around the world are united in a special way during Lent, Holy Week and Easter. Our hearts, minds, prayers are also especially aware of the Holy Land.

Our parish is called to support Christians in the Holy Land. Many Christians in the Holy Land depend on the collection for their lives. Franciscans and others in the Holy Land are housing and feeding the poor, providing formation and education, maintaining shrines and parishes, and conducting pastoral ministry. We rely on so many to ensure our continued success as a school where the academics are amazing, and we are able to partner with parents in the mission of saving souls for their future in heaven.
