Trouble in Paradise

I promise if you expose yourself to the news today, you'll learn the same thing Genesis warns about. There's trouble in Paradise. Things aren't as they should be, and someone (or lots of someones) will pay a bitter price for this.

So, what does this trouble look like? In the original story, God calls, and Adam hides. We're not surprised by this early game of hide-and-seek. Because you and I are familiar with the dynamics of a fraying relationship. When we're in the wrong, you and I become notoriously hard to find. We hide when we're ashamed of what we've done or failed to do. We become invisible when we have secrets we have no intention of sharing. And we go on the lam when we're afraid of being found out.

And we may do all this while remaining in plain view. Adam ducked behind a bush. But you and I often hide behind words: what we say or withhold. We wear disguises: a false smile, a cold silence, even a smokescreen of relentless chatter that keeps everyone away from the truth we're protecting. All the while, we may be seething with resentment, covering a gaping wound, or wracked with fears we dare not express out loud. We don't want anyone to see how vulnerable we are. Or, as Adam puts it, we're not going to expose our private selves in public.

That's Part I of the trouble: Unpleasant truths get put under wraps. Part II of the trouble is the opposite, as Saint Paul describes it: Good news may remain unseen. What we CAN see is often overwhelming: war zones, school shootings, epidemics, yet another leader proving to have clay feet. Not long ago I got a panicked email from a friend about an E. coli outbreak: Don't eat the lettuce! Throw it out, now! It's a tough world when you have to be scared of what's in the crisper.

Paul encourages us not to limit reality to what's tangible and temporary, but to make room for the unseen—which has the advantage of being eternal. Media assures us daily we're one step from apocalypse. Take a hint from the Bible: Every generation is apocalyptic. Humanity is always poised on the brink of disaster. I'm not denying it; I'm saying it's nothing new. So relax. You've lived in apocalypse your whole life and are no worse for the wear. Jesus is poised on the brink, with accusations all around. His family thinks he's crazy. Enemies call him possessed. Jesus roots himself down in the fabulous unseen: his Father's love, abundant life, a new family composed of spirit and truth. We can trust the trouble, or trust the Lord. Because God is always calling. We can hide—or come forth.

THANK YOU!!!

Campaign Update

As the summer is beginning for our parish families, we sit back and anxiously await the return of our stained glass windows. The last 4 windows have been removed and are in Omaha for restoration. What a difference there will be when they are all returned! We look forward to further progress when Fr. Hughes arrives in July!

Remember, if you have any questions concerning the campaign, please contact Betty Ann Schmitz, or anyone else on the Bldg/ Renovation Committee: Alan Beste, Randy Schmitz, Dean Stephens, Tom Venner, Kathy Becker, Pat Henkel, Monica Pearson, Charlie Kostelnick, and Fr. Jim Bruch.

Payment envelopes/pledge cards in the back of church for your convenience!

Congratulations
